You Were There

Participating and encouraging in each aspect of school life to make your school year a success. This annual has been designed with the purpose of storing, in pictures and words, a record of the friends, faculty, classes, activities, and social life that you shared. May your memories be stirred as you thumb through these pages. YES, YOU WERE THERE .....

When We Participated

n These School Activities

The band in one of the formations of the "Droodle Show," presented at a home basketball game.

A trash pick-up sponsored by the Reco staff proved to be a lot of fun as well as a lot of hard work.

When Together We Strove

Mr. Kelso looked on as these members of his biology class gingerly tried their hand at dissection.

These younger scientists of the seventh grade also took an interest in living things.

Dr. Pauline Knobbs, dean of women at Kirksville Northeast Missouri State Teachers college, delivered a thought provoking speech at the commencement exercises.

Eighth-grader, Karen Jobson and senior, LeRoy Hanson accepted their diplomas from Roy Hanson, president of the Board of Education.

Mr. Graves and Mrs. Geraldine Bragg are preparing books at the end of the month, which is a big responsibility and takes many hours of concentration.

To be constantly improving the school system was the goal that guided the Board of Education throughout the school year.

On the school board this past year were a group of efficient, responsible men who planned the policies of the school, hired the faculty, approved bills, and signed contracts that called for their attention.

Included among their specific accomplishments and privileges this past year were:

(1) welcoming the patrons and students of Hackler rural school district to the RII district after Hackler voted to annex,
(2) replacing a small panel bus with a new 48 passenger bus,
(3) purchasing of equipment for the drafting course which was added to the curriculum,
(4) continuing beautification of the school grounds by planting shrubbery.

BOARD OF EDUCATION-Morton Anderson (vice-president), Armel Switzer, Roy Hanson (president), Paul O. Graves, Charles Herriman, R. L. Bunton, Virgil Baugher (treasurer), W. A. Stevens (secretary).

Mr. Bartee is relieved of many routine duties throughout the day by student helpers. Pictured are Daryl Hayes and Beverly Hayes.

The routine day of an office attendant is one in which responsibility and alertness are needed.

An office attendant assumes the responsibility of making a complete record of all the names of students absent during the day. Answering the phone and taking messages requires tact or diplomacy, which is also needed while making visitors welcome during the school hours.

Many of the attendants lend Mr. Bartee a helping hand whenever his duties call him away from the office, by distributing mail to the various teachers of both grade and high school. Occasionally they will be called upon to help check examination papers.

It can be said of this group that their assistance is indeed a great help. Though their duties may seem few to some, those who are in charge of the office, feel that theirs are numerous and varied.

OFFICE KEEPERS-Lois Douglas, Sue Jackson, Judy Neal, Joyce Gannon, Carole J. Johnson, Daryl Hayes, Beverly Hayes, Marilyn Dowell, Wanda Denny, Mary Ann Heaton, Beverly Guyer.

Mr. Graves and Mr. Calvert are discussing ways of improving the school.

Bucklin R II, Class A

Following the visit of Mr. Chester Calvert, state supervisor of schools, Mr. Graves received a letter from the state department of education which stated that the Bucklin RII school was approved as a class A school.

Schools are approved or unapproved according to whether they meet specifications in regard to administrators, teachers, library, and a number of other details.

Classification as U, App, A, AA, or AAA is a complex procedure. To some extent it is influenced by the size of the school, the enrollment, the time given to principals and superintendent for supervisory duties, and number of units approved.

Three of this year's faculty have their Master's degree, and all of the others except one, have their B. S. or A. B. degree. That one lacks only one-tenth of an hour. Several have done additional work beyond that required for their degree.

Thirty-four and one-half high school units were approved for the 1957-58 year which is an increase of six units since 1955-56.

Seventeen units are required for graduation. Of those, three must be social science, three language arts, one mathematics, one science, one practical arts, one fine arts, and one physical education.

Faculty... Just Like Other Folks

While supervising their students during play period, Mrs. Forbes, Mrs. Chaffee, and Mrs. Lewis, seemed to have been taken back to their own carefree days on the playground.

There in front of an old 17th century church in Williamsburg, Va., Mrs. Nickerson paused to think back on all the historical significance of that house of worship.

A typical teachers' meeting is shown below. Here the faculty is taking time out during their monthly gathering, which is on Thursday, to enjoy themselves with a hardy laugh. It was reported that Mrs. Nickerson, while taking this picture said, "Look just as if Mr. Graves has just said you will all have a substantial raise in salary."

Checking exam papers and workbooks consumes many of the teachers' "free" hours. Here Mrs. Nimmo is checking some typing timed-writings.

Mrs. Esther Turner and Mrs. Frances Bartee received their B. S. degrees last summer. However, Mrs. Turner had an unusual graduation --- in the hospital.

Mr. Rulon and Mr. Kelso seemed to enjoy their frequent visits to the home economics department on their time off during the day --- especially if it was to "test" the quality of the homemakers' cooking.

Lunch Hour Story

There is always a steady line in front of the lunchroom door when the noon bell rings. Everyone hurries and scurries to get his money out so that he won't lose his place in line.

The efficient cooks prepare on the average of 300 plates a day, at 25¢ per plate. This makes an average of 523,442 plates per year.

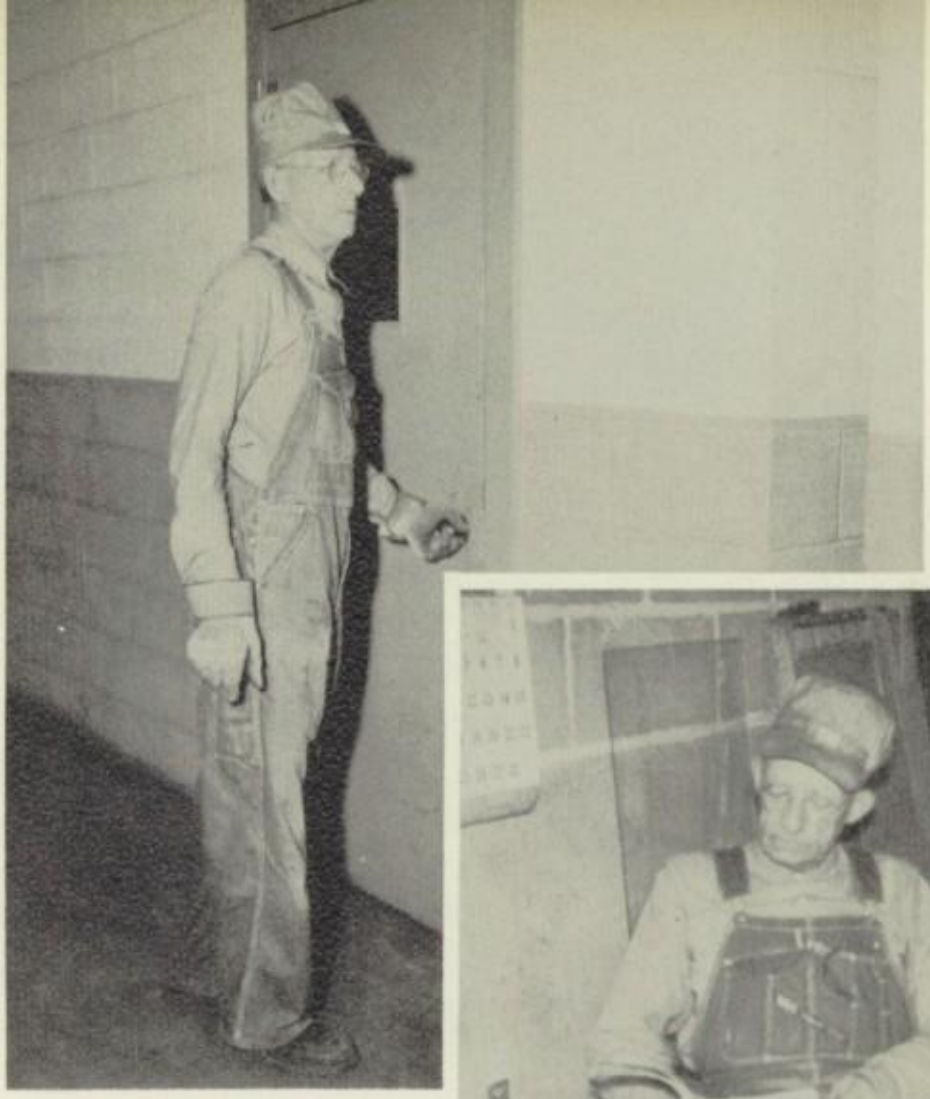
To start the day, the cooks usually start preparing the meals as early as 7:30 a.m., all depending on what the menu consists of. Cooking for the number of students they have takes a great deal of planning and patience. Shown here are Dorothy Sevier, Jessie Mendenhall, and Helen Vobornik.

The grade children, especially, not only enjoy the food, but also the opportunity to get together for fun and talk.

A great help to the cooks are students from the eighth grade class. They do everything from washing dishes to helping serve the meals. In return for their assistance they get all their meals free on the days they work.

Special well-balanced dinners were served at Thanksgiving and Christmas, which consisted of turkey and all the trimmings. Seen here enjoying the dinner is Arletta Baugher, and Paulette Carter.

The Man
Always On The Job



Ward Burk, the school custodian, has served Bucklin public school for 18 years. His unfailing willingness and services are so numerous that he has been well respected by the faculty and student body. He is always the first one to arrive at school and the last to leave, no matter if it is during school activities or regular school hours. Here one of the photographers caught him while he was taking time off from his routine duties.

The Men
Behind The Wheel

The bus drivers drove on the average of 296.2 miles per day. This makes a total of 252,427 miles per year over rough, rugged roads. There were 367 pupils transported to and from school each day.

The drivers at Bucklin were very efficient, responsible, and reliable men. Two of the bus drivers drove for the basketball teams this season. Mr. Stoddard drove for all the girls' teams and "pep" squad members, while Mr. Yount drove for the boys' basketball teams. They had to drive great distances several nights a week through all kinds of weather to take the teams to their destinations.

Freshmen Take On The New Look

Freshmen were initiated by the seniors on Tuesday, September 24. The freshmen were required to dress according to instructions given them by the senior class. The freshmen were instructed to have gum and candy on the day of initiation for seniors upon request. When "Air Raid" was shouted by a senior, they were to hit the floor, face first, and stay there until the all-clear signal was given by a senior.

The same afternoon a ball game with Meadville was held and all classes were dismissed for it.

Learning new words is a task for everyone but especially for the first graders. Mrs. Chaffee makes use of a word to teach word recognition.

Many of the smaller pupils take great delight in performing on the bars and swings. Here is Curtis Gannon tryin to become an acrobat.

Preparation And Performance

Representatives from the seventh and eighth grades gave a choral reading, "A Suit For Santa", on the all-school Christmas program.

High on the list of activities for the first graders was the decorating of their Christmas tree.

Art Through Many Mediums

Modeling clay is being used by Deloma Wolfskill.

Cookie Ervie brightened study hall frequently in the fall with one of her flower arrangements.

Preparing placards for the basketball tournaments gave Carol Ann Vobornik and Larry Amen experience in lettering.

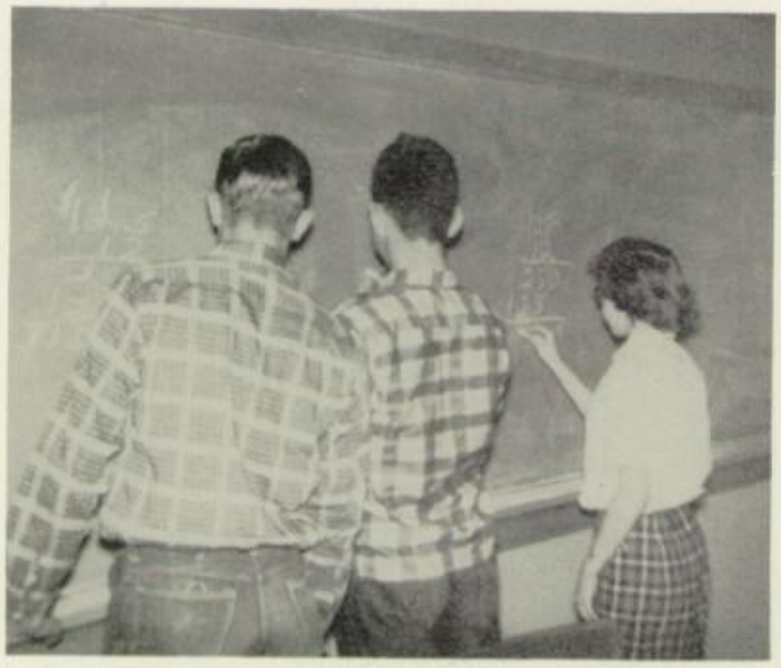
Science And Math For These Changing Times

Sputnik has had its effect on the general science class also.



Three freshmen try for speed in some ciphering in their general math courses.

"Now here is the center of its nervous system," says Mr. Kelso as he assists his class in dissecting some frogs.

Third year home economics girls decorated a tree at Christmas time and in other ways gave a festive air to the room.

Tomorrow's Homemakers
Home Economics

The home economics department has 44 of the 61 high school girls enrolled in its three courses. In each course, foods, clothing, and homemaking are studied.

Each girl also makes a study of her own personality and tries to discover ways of improving it through dress, manners and attitudes.

Planning menus and preparation of food takes on added importance when company is expected.

Shirley Lovett is about to complete her second skirt.

Larry Vobornik was the recipient of an invitation to lunch.

Kirby Anders is just finishing the fifth coat of varnish to the chest which he made in his spare time.

Career Or Hobby

Seventeen boys were enrolled in the drafting class which was added to the industrial arts department this year. New equipment to accommodate 18 people consisted of metal tables, steel chairs, bow compasses, T squares, scales, triangles and French curves.

They learn basic fundamentals in technical drawing which are used by the future engineer or the ordinary person who wants to read and understand blueprints. Exactness and accuracy are necessary to succeed in this course.

Industrial Arts

Learning to use hand tools efficiently and safely are the chief aim in general shop. The very first thing a boy learns is the procedure of squaring a board. During the year he divides his time about equally in the four areas of wood, metal, electricity, and sketching.

Cedar chests were favorite projects in the general woodworking class. Among the articles completed were five chests, a desk, gun racks, lamps, lawn chairs, and tables.

Social Studies ...
For Greater Understanding Of Our World

The class in world history are having an informal discussion and study period under the guidance of Mr. Kelso. So long a period of time has to be covered in this course that it is difficult to get an understanding of it all.

The Planned Progress committees are shown in one of their last sessions working on the notebook and report to be submitted to the Missouri Power and Light Co. for the contest.

Understanding sentence structure is a must in freshman and sophomore English. Extensive use is made of diagramming, together with explanation, to achieve this goal. Shown is Connie Head explaining to the class noun clauses.

Language Arts

For Development of Ideals and Expression

Developing the technique of getting one's thoughts on paper requires patience and perseverance. James LeMay has produced some winning essays.

Informal discussions of writers and many topics pertaining to English literature are an important phase of English IV.

The sophomores believed many heads were better than one, for several of them were seen regularly in the English room before school comparing and discussing their papers or assignments.

A miniature Shakespearian theater was built by Lawrence Marcusson in connection with the class' study of the play "Julius Caesar."

Physical Education Program

Gymnastics are an important part of all physical education classes. Volleyball is played by all classes, but is especially liked by the boys.

During the outdoor season, softball and baseball are enjoyed.

Basketball gets major attention during the indoor season, which is climaxed by a class tournament. Tournament awards for the '57 season went to the Junior boys and to the Sophomore girls.

Story of the Play . . . .

When Fred Hastings, a high school senior, finds himself in a dilemma because he won't disclose the source of his hidden income, his friend, Larry Madison, invents stories to get him out of trouble. A little old lady decides to find out what is going on and the stage is set for excitement.

Fred's mother, Cora, is planning a birthday party for Fred's girl, Nancy, but when the beautiful model, Gloria, and her agent appear at the party, the plot thickens indeed. Poor Fred is doomed; his job as a model for Glamour Girl Cosmetics is about to be revealed. Then, too, Melinda Whipple, the wiry bundle of energy to whom Fred is supposed to be giving football lessons appears out of curiosity to learn what the situation is all about. But Larry insists, leave everything to him (he needs the money Fred promised him to pay for the dog he bought his girl, Julie Tucker, on the installment plan).

Well, the birthday party turns out to be something slightly less than an open-house affair, with a Mr. Danbury looking for his girl, and Melinda Whipple looking for enough room in which to make a touchdown in football. As you can imagine, the evening turns out to be a hilarious one--with an entertaining and delightful climax.

"Oh, yes. But they're forced to humor him. Perhaps even while his mother phoned you, Fred was standing over her with a knife--" says Larry to Miss Whipple.

"Fred!!" cried out Cora as Larry stood in speechless horror.

The annual May Day program was given Wednesday evening, May 1, in the school auditorium. It was a presentation of a geography lesson set to music. The forty-eight states of America were presented individually with students displaying state flags, state birds, and state flowers, with a short story about each state. Gary Vobornik was the narrator. The program included all students from grade one through eight.

Songs, dances, and pantomimes were given by the students who were dressed in colorful and gay costumes.

Following the program, Miss Sharon Crouse, a 7th grade student, was crowned Queen of the May. Her attendants were Judy Herriman, Doris Slater, Diane Lacer and Karen Stone. The Queen's crown was carried by Curtis Gannon. Flower girls were Brenda Jones and Bonita Stanley.

Melody was king with rhythm in every beat from:Virgil Heaton, piano; Ernest Eddy,guitar Roger Hanson, trombone; Jack Anderson, alto saxophone; Jerry Heaton, trumpet;- and Harrison Mendenhall, drums.

The setting was a lonely deserted seashore that was transformed in one magical moment into a lively, colorful party.

Through the blue haze of the dimly lighted gym, waves of couples could be seen dancing to the dreamy music.

When seniors and their dates reflect back on this gala occasion, it will be filled with many happy memories.

Fun! Come Rain,

Many eighth graders waited anxiously in their room until 6 a.m. which was the appointed time for the bus to leave on their trip.

Scenes Along the Way...

On May 3, 1957, the eighth grade students of Bucklin High School crowded through the small doors of the yellow school bus all ready to leave on their trip. Lunches had been packed and everyone had ample money for various rides at Bagnell Dam. It was 6 a.m. and inspite of the cloudy sky and the early hour everyone shouted and sang at the top of his voice.

First stop was Jefferson City where everyone enjoyed a very interesting tour of the Capitol Building. The high light of the Jefferson City stop was a very interesting view of a mock meeting of the senate.

All loaded and on their way again, the destination was Bagnell Dam and a ride on the big "Larry Don". They all had a good look at the "Muddy Mo!" and it wasn't long before they arrived. Since the line was long for a ride on the "Larry Don" everyone went souvenir hunting, speed boat riding, and some even rode the little paddle boats. No trip to Bagnell would be complete without a visit to Dogpatch, but in the midst of the tour, the sky opened up and showers dampened the fun but not the spirits of everyone. There were many disappointed eighth graders when they got back and learned that because of the rain the trip on the "Larry Don" would be postponed.

Tired and weary the students returned to the bus for the ride home. Although they were exhausted many discussed the trip and the fun they had experienced, while others sang songs. Unanimously, they all agreed it was a day full of "fun, come rain or come shine.".

Or Come Shine

Long before the sun appeared over Bucklin, two efficient seniors loaded a shining collection of "graduation" luggage into the back of the sturdiest school bus on the route. While some waved goodbye to parents, others hurried to deposit themselves in rapidly filling seats, Lunches needed careful guarding for the rest period in Swope Park after animal visiting hours.

The ball game furnished a pleasant afternoon for all, whether the chief interest was a growing sun tan, popcorn and peanuts, or the game itself.

By late afternoon the lobby of the Hotel Continental felt the impact of a wind swept horde who were immediately forced into a huddle to redistribute roommates because of crowded hotel conditions.

A short time after keys were distributed, faucets began to open over tubs and showers. Soon elevators from the 12th and 13th floors were emptying heels, starched crinolines and brushed crew-cuts down in the lobby again. Everyone was dressed for an evening at the Pla-Mor.

A trip to the airport where a competent staff seemed to enjoy sharing information concerning weather reports, plane schedules, and the operation of almost human machines. This appealed especially to those who were planning air futures. Even though the plane, which this curious group boarded, did not leave the ground, lively imaginations operated intricate flying instruments, while others seated themselves upon luxurious cushions ready for foreign lands.

On the last morning when the hotel manager said very confidentially, "Come around to the side desk, please," one sponsor prepared for the worst. Aside from a pillow fight and the displacement of a piece of window drapery there was no serious calamity. It was a much happier sponsor who heard the same manager extend an invitation to all future Bucklin graduates who were as fine as the group which was checking in their keys for the last time.

As miles of roadway disappeared in the distance, even the old yellow bus seemed to know that the next stop would be home. Songs suddenly burst forth and aroused sleepy passengers. As another trip ended, students and sponsors knew that a substantial deposit had been made in their bank of happy memories, which would compound interest through the years.

Several of the senior girls consented to have their pictures taken in the back of the parking lot where the bus was parked.

Curtain Time For Juniors

Synopsis

Poor Hubert! You've heard of people who never seem to have any gumption, who are always being shoved and pushed around? Well, that's the way with Hubert Tremblechin. He boards at the home of Mrs. Cottonwood and is head over heels in love with Sally Scott. Victor Blythe, a fellow boarder, is chummy with all the girls, but can hardly call any one of them his favorite.

Life seems to glide pleasantly along like a rippling meadow brook, but then comes Gordon Gray an ex-flame of Sally's and tries to appropriate her for himself. But what can poor Hubert do? Victor urges him to do something to test Sally's love for him--something real drastic. Finally he suggests that Hubert go drown himself, and Hubert, lacking initiative on his own part, does just that.

A little later Hubert's grizzly old Uncle Ben from Brazil comes to visit him, but is informed that his nephew is away from home. No one dares tell him of the drowning, so he hangs around awaiting Hubert's return. Then a stranger thing yet happens--people seem to be seeing two Uncle Bens at the same time and in different places. What can it mean? A lot of things actually happen--and funny ones, too, but it all turns out happily in the end.

Tense moments were experienced by Miss Parrish, make-up artist, and entire cast as "curtain time" approached.

Hubert trips on his nightgown, falls and quickly scrambles upstairs as the result of Caroline's yelling, "Oh mo' spooks! Dis time ah'm gone fer good!"

"Oh, I feel like a pretzel, "says Hubert Tremblechin to Victor Blythe as he emerged from the trunk. He had spent hot, restless minutes in there while Mary Scott and Yvonne Jones had paid a visit to the room.

Miss Beverly Hayes, a senior, was elected Valentine Sweetheart Friday, February 14, at the second annual Valentine basketball game.

The identity of the winning candidates was not revealed to the audience until after she had been brought onto the court in a large enclosure representing a large Valentine box. The members of the boys' basketball team brought the mysterious box onto the ball court where the winning girl's name was announced. As she stepped forward from the enclosure, she was presented with a bouquet of red roses by Robert Connon, captain of the boys' team.

The Bucklin band, in heart-shaped formation around the sweetheart and her escorts, played the Valentine Sweetheart Song of the school. The seven other candidates were escorts. They were conducted to their places by the members of the boys' team. The event was staged between the halves of the boys' game.

The Bucklin band opened the ceremonies by forming the letter K on the court, honoring the Keytesville teams and playing their school song. After which they formed the letter B and the Bucklin group sang their own school song.

Robert Connon (captain) escorted Beverly Hayes from the still excited crowd while the band, in form of a heart, played "Our Valentine Sweetheart Is You."

Bucklin Crowns Its 1957 Basketball Queen

Beverly Guyer was crowned queen, November 5, at the R-2 homecoming game played with Laclede. Jerry Wilson was selected for the honor of king.

Each class selected a candidate for the honor. Deloma Wolfskill and Larry Bartee represented the junior class. Arletta Whisenand and Terry Collins were the sophomore candidates and Doris Ann Wright and Ronnie Ervie were chosen by the freshmen.

The method of choosing the king and queen was by giving a vote to each patron attending the game, who in turn could cast it for the boy and girl desired for the honor.

When the votes were counted, the names of the winners were written on a basketball, which was tossed by Captain Robert Connon of the Bucklin boys' team to Milan Rodgers, president of the student council, who announced the new king and queen to the audience.

The honored couple was escorted to their positions on the court in front of the audience, where they were crowned by Lois Douglas, the 1956 queen.

Miss Lou Ann Parrish, home economics instructor, directed the evening's activities. Between the halves of the girls' game, the cheerleaders did a skit for the audience. The pep band provided music at intervals all through the games.

After the games were over, hot dogs, pop and potato chips were served to the members of both teams and the pep band furnished music for dancing.

A scene from "Miss Fannie's Bomb" in which Papa (Larry Vobornik) has just collapsed from either a heart attack or a temper tantrum. He is being attended by his daughters, Miss Clara (Bonnie Simpson) and Miss Fannie (Evangeline Switzer).

Reco Frolics, A Night Of Fun

Two rollicking one act plays and a variety of musical numbers entertained an appreciative audience in the school auditorium, October 18, 1957.

The program was presented by the Reco staff as one of their projects to raise money to meet the increased cost of publishing the school annual.

Darrell Guyer acted as master of ceremonies. "The Jesters" composed of Virgil Heaton, Jerry Heaton, and Harrison Mendenhall, presented popular numbers at the opening of the program and while stage settings were being changed.

"The Ring and the Look", a comedy based upon teen-age life, was given by Tommy Edwards, Joyce Gannon, Cheryl Heaton, Jerry Wilson, Luticia Fitzgerald, Judy Neal, Carolyn Wilson, and Deloma Wolfskill.

Musical numbers consisted of: a vocal and a piano solo by Carole Joyce Johnson; a vocal quartet by Jo York, John Almond, George Kitchen, and Raymond Yochim; two vocal numbers by Luticia Fitzgerald; and two songs by the Gay Notes Quintet, Herma Head, Carole Johnson, Joyce Gannon, Lois Douglas, and Luticia Fitzgerald.

The program closed with another one act play, "Miss Fannie's Bomb", which produced several hilarious scenes. Its cast consisted of Larry Vobornik, Evangeline Switzer, Bonnie Simpson, and Jo York.

This variety show was directed by Mrs. Gladys Nickerson, the Reco advisor.

Papa (Larry Vorbornik): "Is it burglars? ----Eddie Pratt? Eddie Pratt a burglar?"

Raymond Yochim, George Kitchen, John Almond and Jo York make their debut as a quartet.

Everyone enjoyed the assembly before the Sub-state tournament when the cheerleaders played a sham basketball game, and the boys acted as cheerleaders.

While the cheerleaders weep, Larry Vobornik conducts funeral services for School Spirit which has been ailing for some weeks.

Special Assemblies Spice Working Days

Lois and Jerry Koehler, a gymnastic team presented a very enjoyable program in which they demonstrated the fundamental steps in the act of tumbling and performing on the ring and bar.

Mr. V.W. Meinert, district manager of Missouri Power and Light Company, presents a one hundred dollar award to Darrell Guyer, captain of the freshman Planned Progress team.

I Could Have Danced All Night

The annual Christmas party was held Friday night, Dec. 20. The Student Council decorated the lunchroom with green and red crepe paper.

As each entered the school, he was given a piece of either green, yellow, or blue paper which had a letter of the alphabet on it. This placed everyone into groups according to the color of paper he had. Each group had to decide what Christmas song the letters spelled out and then sing the song.

Another game was played. Then the rest of the evening was devoted to playing cards and dancing.

The Student Council members passed out the gifts; the faculty served refreshments of sandwiches, potato chips, cookies, pop, and a candy ring favor.

About 10 P.M. many began drifting away from the party.

"Come one, come all, there's cookies for the large and for the small. Take your pick or they'll be gone pretty quick." Mr. Lewellen at his wittiest best.

Card tables set up in the hall drew more attention than any other form of recreation at the dance.

Birthdays to Remember

It has become a tradition with the girls to have bunking parties when they have birthdays. Usually, they take time out from their midnight snacks to pose for a picture. Some of those who have had parties in the past year are: Judy Neal, Joyce Gannon, Herma Head, Evangeline Switzer, and Mary Ann Heaton.

These parties include many teenage activities. Among them are playing records, dancing, playing cards and above all, eating. Slumber is usually considered, but never enacted.

Three a.m. was selected as the time for a pose, but Judy Neal, Mary Ann Heaton and Marilyn Dowell failed to appear because they were deep in slumber.

Where there's life, there's Voby. You can always count on his witty expressions and good sense of humor.

Candid Shots of Moments

Again it is ring season and the Juniors are undecided until the last moment on the size, shape, color and price.

At last the rings arrived and the Juniors tensely wait for their initials to be called off by Mr. Bartee. Then the long waited for moment is at hand when they can open the package and slip the ring on their finger.

Rejoicing over the boys' victory in the regional tournament, students gathered in little groups throughout the building.

Supper time at Reco is that welcome intermission between after school and evening brain session. At that time, they release the long held in laughter and tell the funny happenings of the day between bites of hamburger and swallows of pop.

That Will Be Priceless Memories

"Time to Eat" is an appropriate title for that interval between the closing of the school day and the loading of the second bus load. "Don't take it all!" warns Etta Wilson to Wanda Denny as Carolyn Wilson waits for her Reco group to gather.

Gary Wilson and Larry Borron caught again raiding the refrigerator in the Home Ec. department, which happens every night after the 3:20 bell rings.

Ardent baseball fans listened attentively and carefully to the World Series when they happen to have a study hall.

Creators of 1958 Reco

Seated are Mary A. Heaton, Luticia Fitzgerald, Herma Head, Mrs. Nickerson, Jerry Wilson, and James LeMay. These six are the executive branch of the "Reco" staff, and are hard at work gathering valuable information for the yearbook dummy.

The 1958 "Reco" staff's major aim is to gather information concerning the school and compile it into book form. They try to record a complete and accurate account of all the happenings of school activities during the school year.

As a reward for being hard workers, these students learn to meet the public, to distinguish fact from fancy, and to get a better understanding of organization, which will help them from day to day no matter what they may be doing.

The staff, consisting of thirty-one members from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes, are directed by Mrs. Gladys Nickerson. This year the staff and high school faculty chose Mary Ann Heaton and Luticia Fitzgerald as co-editors. Their main responsibility is layout and preparation of the yearbook dummy.

Service Student Council Slogan

The Student Council, composed of two representatives elected by the students from each of the four high school classes, meets the second Thursday of every month in the commercial room.

It is headed by Mr. Clarence Bartee, who is the counselor. Milan Rogers was elected president; Beverly Guyer, vice-president; and Marilyn Dowell, secretary-treasurer.

In addition to discussing and assisting in remedying the prevailing problems, this year's members have helped conduct Polio and Heart Fund drives, ushered at ball games, taken care of the trophy case, sponsored the Homecoming and Valentine Sweetheart activities, assumed responsibility for the bulletin boards, and are acquainting new students with the school.

STUDENT COUNCIL: Dude Rodgers, Harrison Mendenhall, Ronnie Collins, Keith Johnson, Mr. Bartee, Sharon Pamperly, Arletta Whisenand, Marilyn Dowell, and Beverly Guyer.

Dependability

Librarian's Creed

Twelve students, together with Miss Cannon, kept the library in good working order this year. Their responsibilities included checking in and checking out all literary material, mending book covers, keeping complete and accurate records of authors' works in the library, and cataloging the new books that were added.

They were also responsible for keeping the library books dusted and cleaned, and for seeing that the books were placed correctly on the shelves so that students would be able to find any information when they desired it.

Librarians are selected at the beginning of the school year by Miss Cannon from a list of applicants who desire to have that honor, and from recommendations made by other faculty members.

The Bulldog Boosters

"Jiggs", mascot.

Give a cheer, give a cheer,
For the victory that is near,
As Bucklin goes singing along.
Cheer the red, cheer the black,
Cheer the team that won't turn back,
As Bucklin goes cheering along.
Then it's fight, fight, fight,
We will yell with all our might,
Bucklin will win this game tonight.
With a fight, fight, fight,
We will yell with all our might,
As Bucklin goes marching along.
Rah! Rah! Rah, rah, rah!

"We're from Bucklin, couldn't be prouder!"

Mr. Oehrke, Elna Johnson, Larry Borron, Ronnie Head, Etta Wilson, and Mary Ann Heaton served throughout the season as timers and scorekeepers.

Many jobs were handled by Garry Mac Wilson, Larry Vobornik, and Carole Joyce Johnson as sports managers. They kept the athletic equipment and suits in shipshape condition, cared for the injured, and boosted their ebbing morale.

Clarence, Feb. 28, March 1

Opening night found the Bulldogs pitted against the Vikings of Lewistown, winners of the Downing tournament. After a close first half, the Bulldogs opened up their lead in the third quarter. A final rally by the Vikings in the fourth quarter fell short. The Bulldogs won 60 to 56.

The next night it was a different story though, as Madison combined their advantage in height and rebounding skill together with some deadly shooting. The game ended Bulldogs 56, Madison 64.

Milan Rodgers goes up but not high enough as David Brooks, 45, gets the tip in the final game of the Sub-State tournament in which the Bulldogs lost.

Tri-County Conference Teams

Coaches from all schools of the Tri-county conference held their annual meeting at the close of the basketball season and selected an honorary Tri-county team.

They selected for the first team Larry Bartee and Milan Rodgers from Bucklin, Larry Coorts and Fred Roensch from Linneus, and Kenneth O'Neal from Northwestern. Daryl Hayes was selected as a member of the second team.

A Backward and Forward Look

The Bulldogs will lose many fine players before another basketball season. Lettermen who will be missing from next year's squad will be Daryl Hayes and Milan Rodgers, 4 year lettermen; Robert Connon and Bob Molloy, 2 year lettermen; and Jerry Wilson, one year. Lettermen returning are Larry Bartee 3 years, Tom Edwards and Jerry Heaton 2 years. Jo York and Ronnie Collins earned their first letter this year.

Parking facilities were tested to the limit on Friday and Saturday nights when evenly matched teams fought for the championship. On hand each night directing traffic were Johnnie Ritchie, Gary Vobornik, and Richard Borron.

They Took Care of the Extras

Students, faculty, and parents helped insure a successful tournament. From the committee who greeted the visiting teams, to the boy who called in the final scores to the news and radio offices, many were on the job.

Gay, sprightly decorations created by members of the art department gave a festive and friendly air to the lobby and gymnasium. Facsimiles of fierce Bulldogs, threatening Hornets, and lithe Panthers glared down from the gym walls.

James LeMay and Patsy Wilson added the last touches to the lobby decorations.

Harrison Mendenhall, aided by James LeMay, was changing the names under the score board.

Deloma Wolfskill and Carolyn Sue Wilson were in charge of the selling of tournament booklets each night.

High school girls served as waitresses. Waiting for customers are Arletta Whisenand, Wanita Magers, and Arleta Baugher.

Bucklin Chamber of Commerce

Coach Bartee and the Bucklin Bulldogs wear the smiles of victory, for they have just finished cinching the Tri-County Conference title. In a thrilling fifth inning, they wristed victory from the powerful Northwestern Eagles in the final game of the tournament at Mendon. The score 5-4.

At 11:30 on the morning of May 9, Mayor Orville L. West and M.C. Boogher, vice-president of the Missouri Public Service Company, turned the valve on the Missouri Public Service Company's town border station that sent natural gas hissing into the natural gas distribution system of Bucklin for the first time.

A short ceremony was held at the border station in conjunction with turning on gas for the system. Present for the ceremony were Mayor Orville West, Councilmen John Ritchie, Ted Wilson, J.W. Ralston, Ben Willsie; City Clerk C.M Lile, treasurer P.E.Rouse, collector Robert L. Marcusson, Marshall Russell King, water commissioner Arnold Aldinger and Monte Carter owner of the land on which the station is located.

In the M.F.A. Corn Yield Contest, Roscoe L. Baugher, Bucklin, had the top yield in Linn County, He also placed fourth in the state-wide competition. His field averaged 144.46 bushels to the acre. He received a prize of $150.

F.G. Nickerson, Bucklin, made 134.6 bushels to the acre on upland. R.S. Nickerson, St. Catherine, produced 127.36 bushels an acre on his contest field. Fred Olson, Bucklin, made 127.17 bushels to the acre.

Other contestants from Bucklin were R.F. Schillinger, and Jerry Main.

More than 200 spectators turned out for the club's first show, which was held at its recreation grounds 2 miles east of Bucklin at Oak Park on old Highway 36.

The Club is made up of 40 members from Brookfield, Marceline, Bucklin, New Cambria, and Rothville.

V.E. Groce, Bucklin, master of ceremonies, announced the events, entries and winners. Some 85 horses were entered in the show. The horsemen and their steeds came from Kirksville, Chillicothe, Moberly, Brunswick, Hannibal, Marshall, Blackwater, Carrollton, and Trenton besides those from local nearby towns.

Highlight of the opening night of the Bucklin Annual Homecoming was the presentation of the candidates for "Miss Planned Progress Queen". The candidates were sponsored by Bucklin merchants, fraternal, and religious organizations. The candidates were Martha Anderson, Cody Cohoon, Connie Head, Herma Head, Arletta Baugher, Martha Carter, Beverly King, Beverly Hayes, Connie Burris, Elna Johnson, Carolyn Wilson, Luticia Fitzgerald, Deloma Wolfskill, Thelma Switzer, and Lois Douglas.

The worst blizzard in five years swirled into Kansas and Missouri January 21, bringing a 14 inch blanket of snow and a 3 day vacation.

Drifts so blocked the roads that travel was almost prohibited. The wise who did travel provided themselves for emergencies with shovel and cinders. Shown is Tom Edwards digging out his friend Daryl Hayes.

Thanks, a Million

Just as all good things must come to an end, so must this issue of the Bucklin Reco. In conclusion we, the students, wish to express gratitude and extend congratulations to those who endeavored to make our yearbook a success.

First, credit for the photography is given to: Mr. W. G. Ikenberry for many of the formal group pictures and the Senior pictures, Mr. Jim C. Harvey, and Mr. Bert Nickerson for the action and miscellaneous shots.

Printers, publishers, and patrons--the 3 P's necessary to any yearbook, are next in line for thanks. Walsworth personnel and workers have played a large part in this year's successful creation. Much credit goes to our town itself and its City Council, Chamber of Commerce and community churches, who promoted the Reco with financial aid and encouragement.

We wish to thank the faculty for their advice and donation of class time when needed in last minute work.

The Reco Staff with the help of the Reco sponsor, Mrs. Gladys Nickerson, have worked many hours in gathering material and constructing this year's publication. Hearty thanks for their endless efforts!

The Students
